TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Mr. Peter Meares was the Master of Ceremonies at Stuartholme School's recent Sport Stars' Dinner, a gala function attracting 500 guests and held in the Le Grand Ballroom of Brisbane's Sofitel Hotel.

In performing the normal duties associated with the role, Mr. Meares displayed a most competent and professional manner by ensuring that the evening's programme not only ran smoothly but also kept strictly to the times dictated to by the running sheet. This one aspect of his performance earned the approbation of those present.

His most significant contribution to the evening, however, was the experienced practice he exhibited when interviewing and eliciting information from a panel of Olympic Games Gold Medallists comprising Susie O'Neill, Kieren Perkins and Steve Bradbury. Through his adroit questioning and searching for more telling inside responses from the Panellists, the rapt audience was transported into the emotional arena of the Olympic Games. Peter was able to provoke each to speak from the heart which took all present behind the scenes to share with them their hopes and aspirations, their triumphs and disappointments. This part of the programme was the climactic highlight of the evening.

I regard Peter Meares as a gifted and experienced Master of Ceremonies, and I have no hesitation in recommending him highly.
